

Roadmap

Family Discipleship Moments

Goals

- Faith commitment and growth. Lead your children to faith in Jesus and help them mature into future disciple-makers.

Know

- Discipling your child to follow Christ is the highest calling you have as a parent. Most parents hope their kids get into the best colleges, have the best careers, and create beautiful families of their own. While these are all good, none of them are eternal. Since we believe the eternal truths of the gospel, we are called to diligently teach this message and faith to our children.

Do

- There is not a one-size-fits all approach to Family Discipleship. For some, it is reading the Bible every night. For others, it is getting together once a week to sing worship songs and read Bible stories. Part of leading your family is figuring out what works best for you and your kids. You get to choose your own adventure and piece together a system and rhythms that work for you. Here are some ideas that you can try out to see what works for you:
 - Choose one night a week that is a special family discipleship night. Read Bible stories, sing songs, etc.
 - Get everyone in the same room together to have a quiet time.
 - Act out Bible stories with younger children.
 - Reading the Bible and/or praying nightly before bed.
 - Take your older children to coffee and do one-on-one discipleship.
 - Use catechisms and giving candy, sweets, and prizes as rewards for reciting-make it fun.
 - Memorize Scripture together.
 - Read the Bible, a devotion, a Psalm at the breakfast table.
 - Listen to an audio Bible together for kids that are audio-learners.
 - Get them personal Bibles so they can read on their own.
